

Description of the New Zealand Tertiary Education System 2014

This document provides information on the New Zealand tertiary education system for the Tertiary Education Qualification Statement (TEQS), a Diploma Supplement-equivalent.

Introduction

New Zealand's tertiary education system encompasses all post-secondary school education. The system includes a range of public and private independent, self-governing tertiary education organisations (TEOs) that award tertiary education qualifications. Each type of TEO makes a distinctive contribution to the tertiary education system, as outlined in the Education Act 1989. The Act recognises the strengths and differences of each type of TEO across the whole system.

The tertiary education system reflects Te Tiriti o Waitangi / the Treaty of Waitangi as a founding constitutional document of New Zealand. The Treaty is an agreement between the Crown and Māori, the indigenous people of New Zealand. Programme and qualification content, as well as institutions, reflect and address the spirit of partnership embodied in the Treaty.

Degree-level qualifications may be granted by universities, institutes of technology and polytechnics (ITPs), wānanga (Māori centres of tertiary learning) and some private training establishments (PTEs).

New Zealand Qualifications Framework

The NZQF is a comprehensive list of all quality assured qualifications in New Zealand. The qualifications on the NZQF can be viewed and compared at: www.nzqa.govt.nz/nzqf

The NZQF has ten levels. Levels are based on complexity: level 1 is the least complex and level 10 the most.

Credits

A total of 120 credits is considered an annual full-time study load for a student. 120 credits is equivalent to 60 ECTS (European Credit Transfer and Accumulation System).

Quality assurance

NZQA establishes the regulatory basis for approval, which the two organisations apply, to ensure that a programme is based on clear and consistent aims, content, outcomes and assessment practices. Information on New Zealand's quality assurance processes can be found at:

www.nzqa.govt.nz/ga-nz-education

The two organisations that quality assure and approve qualifications in New Zealand:

- The New Zealand Qualifications Authority (NZQA). NZQA approves all programmes and qualifications developed by wānanga, PTEs, ITPs, industry training organisations and other tertiary providers, excluding universities www.nzqa.govt.nz
- The New Zealand Vice-Chancellors' Committee (operating as Universities New Zealand-Te Pūkai Tara). Universities New Zealand's Committee on University Academic Programmes (CUAP) approves all university qualifications www.universitiesnz.ac.nz

Government agencies

The Ministry of Education www.minedu.govt.nz is the government department responsible for developing the broad policy framework for tertiary education.

The Tertiary Education Commission www.tec.govt.nz is a Crown Entity responsible for managing the Government's investment in tertiary education.

NZQA www.nzqa.govt.nz quality assures programmes, qualifications (as outlined above) and tertiary education organisations, excluding universities, and evaluates overseas qualifications and administers the NZQF. NZQA fulfils the role of National Education Information Centre www.nzqa.govt.nz/neic under the Lisbon Recognition Convention (1997).

Comparability with other national qualifications frameworks

Ireland

NZQA and the National Qualifications Authority of Ireland agreed that Irish and New Zealand degree level qualifications are broadly compatible. The full report can be downloaded from www.nzqa.govt.nz/qual-compatibility-project

Malaysia

NZQA and the Malaysian Qualifications Agency have agreed that the NZQF Level 7 Bachelor degree and the Malaysian Qualifications Framework Level 6 Bachelor degree are comparable. For information see:
