

MY BLOCK PATTERN

I took my full piece ^{Front - Bottoms} block and traced it onto the cardboard. I then altered it to what I wanted. I made the seam line longer of 2cms & which meant I could make the leg line bigger.

I then had to ^{Back - Bottoms} make the seam line longer on the back piece also to ease the seams have to line up. I then added 1cm all around for the seam allowance ~~on~~ on both patterns.

For the ~~top~~ ^{Front - Top} I traced my full piece block. I then measured 15cm from the neckline and made that the edge of my bikini top. I took out the shoulders because I love straps and made the side seam join to the neckline. I straightened the neckline from  to  by removing and adding lines.

I used the full piece block and changed the shape. I made the seams both add ~~100~~ to 10cm without 1cm allowance.  → ^{traced with the size & shape of the back.}

TOP ADJUSTMENTS

 → wanted the back part to go up higher.

↓ added

 → Then I had to make the side seam bigger so I cut 2 pieces of cardboard

added

 → cut my mock fabric out.

BOTTOM ADJUSTMENTS

 → The leg line & going down to the crotch was too small.

↓ added

 → I added pieces to create a better shape.

CHANGES

On my shoulder straps were my too loose so I made and to ease of them into my top tighter so they fitted up well.

On the white padding as I didn't sew it to my mock front, this is a change I made.

When I ~~tried~~ ^{thought} that reverse able would be too difficult so I decided to add straps in at the side. I ~~change~~ ^{change} my ~~photo~~ ^{photo} and cut it so it sat better on me.

Bottoms CHANGES Top

I was happy with the first time I cut it out! 6

I added pieces in some areas to make it bigger or shape better (cardboard)

This is my incomplete part mock up reversible bottoms. I have been trailing here to join the side seems to a high quality standard I still need to think about how I will do it so its even looking on both sides of the bottoms

I tried lining but it didn't look very nice on both sides and its also quite hard to work with fabric wise.

6 BOTTOMS

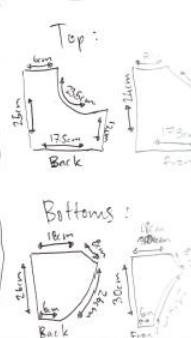

5 My reversible sewing of separate. It looks really good, I'm happy with it.

I am happy with this pattern it fits really well. The crotch line isn't too small. It turned out much better than I thought.

This has good shape. It covers a and the is even

I really love the way the pattern was turned out it is exactly where I wanted it to fit. the neckline fits high enough and the bottom of it is just low enough.

The side seems line up really well and the under the arm cut is just low enough

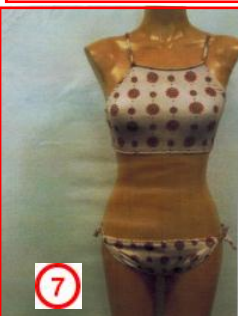

I need to make the straps tighter so they don't gather. I really like the shape how it goes across the shoulder blades and how high the back part goes

Overall I am happy with my bikini. The trail mock up really helped me as I just repeated it to make my final piece. My pattern and method wasn't very complex and I managed to finish it before I thought I would. The only big change I made to my bikini was that I decided not to make it reversible so I had to alter how I would complete my side seams. With some straps I managed to attach them and not change my original pattern. I put lining in my final one and not my mock up so that took some time to work out at the start. Overall I really like my print, pattern and quality of my bikini. I am proud of what I have accomplished in the last two weeks. I look forward to wearing it
