

Pronto plate

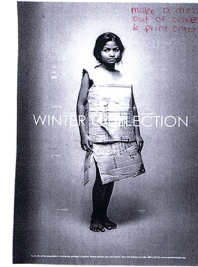

Solar plate

Two prints using three different techniques

- Pronto plate / woodcut onto box surface
- frontage of dirty looking surface
- Stencil - screen print or graffiti
- carbon paper drawing over printed ground

- Pronto plate
- comparing the needs/wishes of a child living in poverty to a child living in a first world country
- Pronto plate printed onto a box to create a rough effect

- Stencils for Screenprints
- All above images could be used as stencils to create a silhouette figure which could then be worked on overtop with a carbon paper drawing

- These two images used as a screenprint would show how unhealthily these children are

The Sydney Morning Herald
20,000 die each day

- woodcut
- Possible woodcut of a child wearing and board clothes
- Ripped onto a frontage surface or box
- Possibly used as a stencil
- carbon paper drawing
- printed onto a news paper page or photocopy which would then be attached to card or semi over a box to still expose the cardboard

- Possibly drawn over top of a screenprint of a child
