

Pronto plate

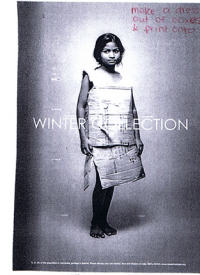

Solar plate

Two prints using three different techniques

- pronto plate / woodcut onto box surface
- fringing of dirty looking surface
- stencil - screen print or graffiti
- carbon paper drawing over printed ground

- Pronto plate
- comparing the needs/wants of a child living in poverty to a child living in a first world country
- Pronto plate printed onto a box to create a rough effect

- Stencils for Screenprints
- All above images could be used as stencils to create a silhouette figure which could then be worked on over-top with a carbon paper drawing

The Sydney Morning Herald
20,000 die each day

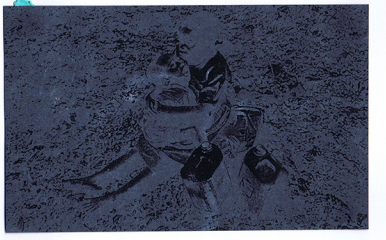

- woodcut
- Possible woodcut of a child wearing acid board clothes
- Printed onto a fringed surface or box
- Possibly used as a stencil

- carbon paper drawing
- Printed onto a news paper page or photocopy which would then be attached to card or semi over a box to still expose the cardboard

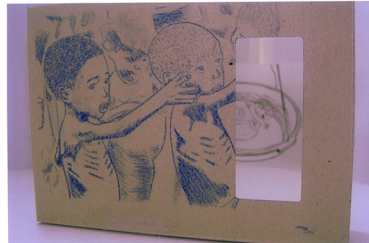

- These two images used as a screenprint would show how unempathy these children are
